

C4i, Inc - Company Bio

Jorge Petrovic

e-mail: jorge.petrovic@c4i.us.com

Website: www.c4i.com

Contact: (240) 997-6454

When it comes to operations in the air, a reliable communications solution is imperative. C4i understands the world of Defense - particular the Air Force; having cut our teeth on mission-critical applications many times before. Fixed-site Air Operations Centers require clear, fast, reliable communication that is non-dependent on the variant of radio transmission (VHF, UHF, HF and satellite). Confidentiality is often important, making the ability to switch between secure and non-secure communication a crucial capability. Ground-Air and Air-Air communications must always reach their intended destination. Operators may need to converse locally, nationally or on a world-wide basis, according to the needs of the particular Air Force. C4i tailors interoperable communications solutions for each specific Air Force client; as we understand requirements differ greatly across nations. The mobile nature of tactical operations also present different challenges and a unique system design, making customization highly important. Implementing a solution perfectly crafted for your Air Force, ensures the personnel on the ground (or in the air) have freedom to complete the task at hand - knowing the system behind them is always up for the job.