Information technology has grown in power and possibilities over the past quarter-century, and so has GTSI. From our beginnings as a software and peripherals provider for federal agencies we've become a national leader in delivering comprehensive IT solutions and services that meet the mission-critical needs of governments at every level. Government is our unwavering focus; as such, we hold a deeper understanding of the complexities of building and maintaining IT infrastructures within the parameters of federal, state, and local requirements. Through strategic partnerships with market leaders, we combine best-in-class technologies with our best-in-field experts to create powerful yet cost-effective solutions that closely align your IT objectives with your business goals. We back it up with a range of professional services that add to the agility, responsiveness, and speed we bring to every engagement
